CLAMO

What is your definition of style? Clayton defines style in these three modes: FASHION, ACTIVITIES, and LANGUAGE. Fashion is that ever-changing clothing style from Polo shirts to tie-dyed shirts. Activities are the innumerable sports teams and the various clubs in which we all participate and display our unique talents. Language is the manner in which we express ourselves, from "bonjour" to "cool man." Within these three categories each person expresses themselves in their own special way. Each person has their own style.

SUMMER JOBS

Without those bodies, where would the JCCA be?

I'm the best mower in town! Trust me!

So, what did you learn about leadership?

You did not have to look very far this summer to find hard-working Clayton students with their noses in the grindstone. Toiling long hours and doing very demanding tasks under the blazing hot sun were those loyal Clayton Shaw Park workers ranging from lifeguards to maintenance. At yet another pool, the JCCA, Adam Gidlow and Mike Hatch sold culinary delights to hungry campers.

Phil Brown, Doug Abramowitz, and Max Reynolds went on the road for the city of Clayton repairing, mowing, and generally making Clayton a better place to live. Over at the government center, future leaders could be found: Josh Sitzler, Jeff King, Bill Butler, Steve Sullins, and Jeff Myer. Finally, who could forget the Schnucks crew? Sanford, Jaret, Damian, and Sarah Katzman made up quite an enthusiastic team working behind the meat counter, carting, and bagging. All in all a pretty fun-filled summer- so what's everyone going to do with all their money?

!!! FASHIONS

Many of the outrageous, new fashions this year were, in actuality, outrageous, old fashions. If this seems confusing, imagine how the teachers felt when they saw the same apparel coming down the hall that their students or even themselves were wearing twenty years ago. While the weather was warm, many a dude and dudette could be seen wearing old turned-up Levi's, and of those psychadelic space tie-dyed t-shirts from the sixties. As it grew colder, the ever faithful jean and leather jackets were retrieved from the back of the closets to keep CHS fair sport spectators toasty warm

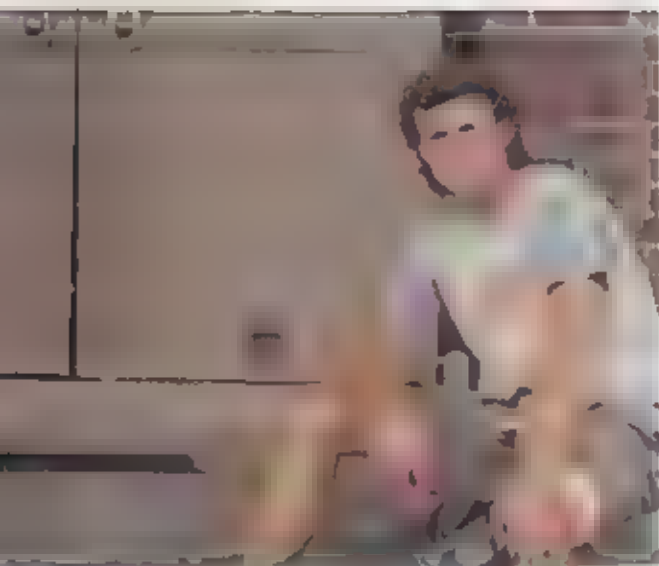

Torey and Mike ... Do we dare call them trendy?

Hey, I know where it is at!

We have the look, no doubt

First rule of fashion: Don't mess with dudes in shades, ever

The tie-dye crave changed Doug's life

Fashion inspired, Jackie and Jennifer sport the daring look

Old clothes, however, were not the only clothes. Brand new spirit items were invented for the true, orange and blue, Clayton student. The C-Club made millions of dollars, (only joking) hundreds of dollars from the teachers who could not get enough of those V-neck Greyhound sweat-ers. On game days, the soccer and field hockey players became quite the trend setters as well. Long sleeve, Clayton blue soccer t-shirts, and field hockey trash bags (?) were all the rage. No one could guess what those crazy Claytonites would be wearing next

Drive it, Hill!

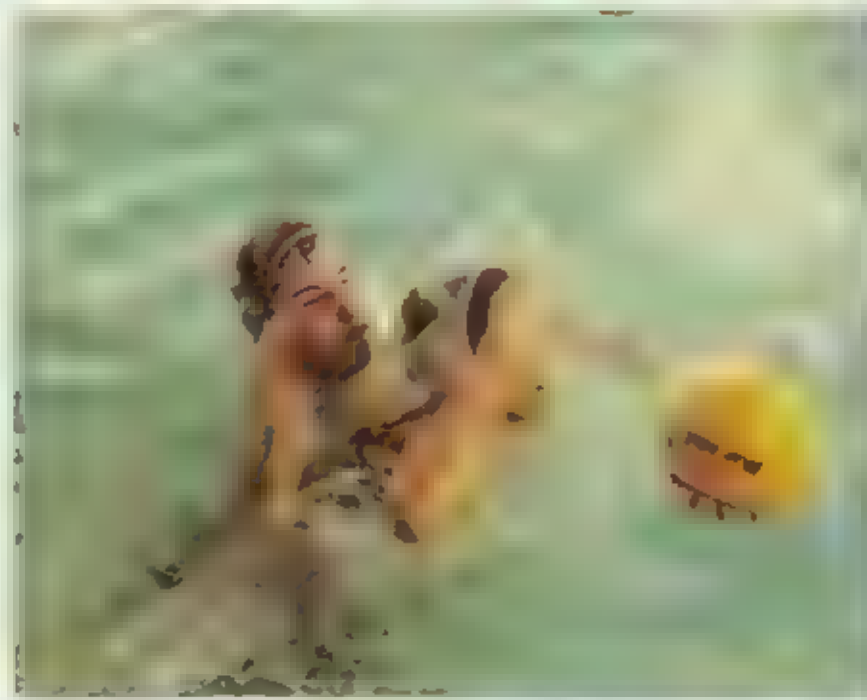

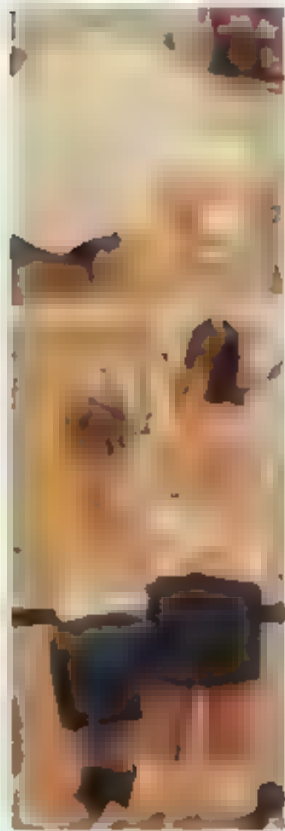

At CHS, we have more than just a fine academic program. Our athletic program fields teams from schools that are two-to-three times our enrollment. O.K., maybe the football hounds did not have such a great year, but take a look at the other Clayton sports. Many of these other teams have been recognized to be among the finest in the St. Louis area. The players on the Clayton teams devote as much energy on the athletic fields as they do in the academic forum. The effort expended by our athletes cannot be appreciated enough. It is one of the many factors that make Clayton High School the great institution that it is. So, the next time you see the swimmers putting in their laps, the soccer players working on a torturous drill, the runners sprinting to the finish line, or the basketball players perfecting their shots, give them a word of encouragement. They deserve it!

We can't escape it! That Clayton spirit has captured us. Shades of orange and blue align the football bleachers on game days. Along with the orange and blue clothing, buttons, flags and pom-poms are seen throughout the crowd. And of course, we can't forget the awesome cheerleaders that pull everyone up when our spirit is down. That incredible Clayton spirit has even enticed teachers and parents alike to show off their school spirit. No matter where we go, we can't escape it. It's definitely here to stay — CLAYTON SPIRIT

There is a time of day when style is displayed in every way. LUNCHTIME. As your eyes wander through the commons many individual express their unique eating techniques.

A commonly seen face at lunch is that of the student who insists on stuffing his mouth with food, anyone with oversized cheeks and big eyes. Another eating style is that of the fast eater. This is the guy who does not let one element of food touch the plate before the other is in his mouth. The talker must be mentioned. This is the guy who thinks everything he has to say is so important that he can't even be quiet with his mouth full of food.

Well, there are many styles seen in a lunchroom, but we must not forget the incredible hot plate lunches. These have style in themselves.

They may not have won many games, but the ones the football hounds did win were great, weren't they? A thrilling starting line-up composed of seniors, juniors, and sophomores blew over Francis Howell North and Maplewood easily. During the season, the hounds suffered from a loss of players. Quarterback, Lance McPherson, was injured early in the season; this injury kept Lance out of the rest of the games and gave sophomore, Arlo Henderson a chance to start. The team also lost outside linebacker, Joe Tucker, because of extended illness. Although there existed much talent among the healthy Hound dogs, only one hound, Darren Merriwether, was chosen first team all-conference for his achievement at nose-guard. A better season is expected from Coach Frost and his talented junior and sophomore players next year. Good luck Hounds!

The 1987 CHS water polo team enjoyed success and failure. Bright spots included victories over Parkway Central. In the league tournament the Hounds finished at an unexpected fourth place, quite an accomplishment considering the competition. The H2O Hosses had a very tough schedule which included ten games against the top four teams in the league. In the district tournament the Hounds finished fifth, again losing the final game to the nemesis Parkway West. Individual standouts included Jim Floerchinger, who led the team goals, and senior Jeremy Schonfeld, who set a school record in saves while being the top goalie in the league.

In the fall of 1987, the Clayton Varsity Soccerhounds continued the winning tradition. They started out doing a tremendous job in their beginning season games, and continued the tradition by winning the ABC tournament. On their winning roster was the help from our new foreign-exchange student, Andy, and the ever-powerful Damian Stahl and Mike Hatch. The mastered skills of Hugh Black, Damian Pritchard, and Nadim Kanafani can also not be forgotten along with the powerful defensive players, Jon Hoffman and Mike Angelides. With the great help and support from the Booster Club, they could be distinguished in school by their ever-popular soccer shirts. And the team could never have survived without the awesome coaching of Dave Aiello and the managing of Lisa, Kathleen, and Jessica.

Clayton girls (at the end) poised and ready to accelerate at the sound of the gun.

The Clayton harriers continued their tradition of success in '87, taking three boys and the entire girls team to the state meet. The boys team, led by Andrew Karandjeff, Steve Heifetz, and Chris Grant were a force throughout most of the year before succumbing to injury and illness toward the end of the season. The team performed exceptionally well in a number of meets, outrunning many of the larger schools as well as the majority of the smaller ones. Not enough can be said about the girls team. Led by standout Leah Bower, this pack was by far the best girls cross country team ever assembled at Clayton. They won a number of dual meets and capped off the season with a tie for first place at the district meet, advancing them to state for the first time ever. Aside from having another tremendous year, the entire cross country team again had the best skit at the Homecoming Pep Rally. If the pep rally was a race, they would have run away with it. They were BAAAD!

Finally, after countless hours of practice, it all paid off. The 1987 Volleyball team, with an overall record of 19 wins and 5 losses, is one of the best teams at Clayton in a long time. Led by Seniors Adrian Powell, Kristen Neilson, and Tricia Floro, the hounds had no trouble setting and spiking their way to victory. They finished first in the Ritenour Tournament by beating first seated Ft. Zumwalt. In the District Tournament, Clayton received a second place finish, an excellent end to an excellent season.

This year the team got a valuable, new addition, Coach Diana Westbrook. Her expertise was a leading volleyball team. Next year, the team will be led by Juniors, Lisa Skrivan and Ellen Peistrup, plus many talented Sophomores.

The Junior Varsity team cannot be overlooked. They had an outstanding record of 19 wins and 3 losses. Superstars such as Karen Striebeck, and Sophomores Lisa Lineback, Jenny McLaughlin, and Lisa Steinmetz led the way to a first place finish in their tournament. The Junior Varsity welcomed their new Coach Mrs. Obermark, with an incredibly exciting season.

An intense player

The 1987 Girls Netbonds were unfortunately plagued by injuries and illnesses during most of this year's season. Despite this, the team made strong showings in the District and League Tournaments and the girls qualified for state. This year the team was mostly made up of underclassmen. New doubles are expected to be a great asset in the years to come. Single player Missy Clooney and Hed Joist were unable to play several matches due to injuries. One sophomore member of the team said, "We had good players, but it was the lack of spirit and enthusiasm that really hurt us!"

Known as the official 1987 "Shinwackers," the team dribbled, drove, and dominated down the field. The team also produced many selections to the Suburban East All Conference Team. First team selections were Cynthia Churchwell, Mary Koenig, and Julia North. Second team selection was Stacey Tate. Honorable Mentions went to Kris Kueneke, Corinne Alfeld, Christy Peniston, Kristin Voellinger, and Hilary Johnson. Cynthia was also named to the Suburban Journal's All Metro team. Way to go!

Andrea Laber and Laura Maier turned over a new leaf in cheerleading during the 1987 fall season. A spirited twenty member varsity squad composed of seniors, juniors, and sophomores was joined by a creative freshman squad. The varsity was divided into two squads appropriately named orange and blue. These squads cheered separately during the week, but collaborated their spirit during the weekends. The three squads together combined to represent a variety of sports and lead the "On to Victory."

They will get by . . . Despite the loss of most of last year's team, the Clayton Greyhound Hoopsters were not lacking in spirit or desire. This year's Co-Captains were Greg Adams and Jim Eickmann who led a team of equally hard-working seniors, juniors, and sophomores. Everybody knows a team of hounds cannot be complete without managers to help out. This year, La Huddart, Kim Kaplan, and Andrea Rezman filled those shoes. The Clayton Hoopsters stood tall against every team and gave it all they had. They earned respect from everyone . . . They did survive.

The girls' Freshmen, Junior Varsity, and Varsity claimed an overwhelming amount of talent this year. All teams finished with outstandingly convincing records. Coached by Mr. Harned, the Freshman Team had an overall record of 5-4. Their last three wins were all in a row by defeating tough 4A powers such as Parkway North and McCluer North. Junior Varsity finished the season with a record of 19-2 and a league championship. They won the championship by beating Orchard Farms by a score of 46-28. Meanwhile, the Varsity finished with a record of 24-3 before post-season play. They won the league tournament and ended the season as co-champions of their league with Orchard Farms. To begin post-season play, the hoopsters captured the District Title in a nerve-racking game against Affton.

Neither JV, nor Varsity lacked personnel this season. Kerry Peistrup (the leading scorer), Leah Bower, Jennifer Marth, Jenny McLaughlin, and friends led the team to victory. Coach Drury is happy to say that he is sending solid players up to the Varsity level this year. The Varsity squad was well equipped. Their season went so well that they had about 45 rpm's per game. That is the points between Royce, Powell, and Murphy.

Todd Alml, John Harrison, Scott White, Eric Willson, Jim Floerchinger, and Robert Clark

This was the best season in several years for the Clayton Swimhounds. The team finished up with a 15-3 record, and a strong showing at state. Led by a strong nucleus of juniors and the influence of captain Jim Floerchinger, the Hounds left opponents drowning in their wake. Top junior swimmers included all-around greats Scott White and Todd Alml, and freestylers Eric Wilson, Rob Clark, and John Harrison. Floerchinger led the way in breaststroke and was also a force in freestyle. Coach Lundt felt that this season's team was the best in years, but anticipates greater things from next season's squad. With just three seniors leaving, the Swim Hounds will once again be chopping through the water and leaving others behind.

Senior Captain Mike Prstojevich winds up for a shot

Although the Clayton Hockey Team fell just short in their big playoff game, losing to Webster 2-1 in double overtime, throughout the season, they pushed other teams to the limit, pulling off more than a few upsets along the way. The team was lead by captain Mike Prstojevich, along with assistant captain David Huth from Brentwood and assistant captain Adam Gidlow. Adam Gidlow, Mike Hatch, Ian Moody, Jeff Meyer, and Tome Liskowski made an impenetrable wall on defense. Also starring on the ice was AFS student Simon Leroux from Canada. Both Kevin Handley and Ryan Harshman stopped pucks left and right. The excellent team play, enhanced by 5:30 am practices, was directed by Coach Moody and Coach Murawski. The team finished with a record of 6-11-3 and one play-off lost. With many of the players returning next year, the 1987-88 season provided a solid team upon which a winning team can be built in the future.

The Greyhound Wrestlers under the guidance of Coaches Ruggraff and Peters, found the strength to triumph over many an opponent this season. Seniors, Jason Row and Joe Tucker, were co-captains of the team and both achieved notable successes in their matches. In addition to the captains, there were many other stars. The team as a whole won numerous meets including two quad meets at Brentwood and Chaminade. This success, however, has not always existed; noted Varsity wrestler Steve Fisher, "We have a much better team than last year." When we asked for the cause of the victories Fisher replied, "Everyone supported each other, that's why we won more."

As the small rubber spheroid ricochets off the walls the two players dash back and forth swinging their racquets. This is the fast-paced sport of racquetball, a sport which requires dexterity, strength, supreme endurance, and most of all, fast thinking. Mr. Lakinger, racquetball's sponsor, holds the team together and provides support to the players. Racquetball finally became an official school sport last year, but it still has a long way to go before it rivals football! However, this game provides another avenue for CHS'ers to get out and compete. Racquetball also has a few things over other sports. The action is intense, and as the ball starts to bounce wildly off the walls, the brain starts moving, and the heart starts pounding.

Putting one of Clayton's finest sports facilities to good use is one of Clayton's better teams: track. Coached by '87 Track Coach of the Year, Larry Frost, the girls track team continued to dominate their opponents. Coached by Paul Wernsman, the boys track team turned in a fantastic year and brought new life to the Clayton track program with sprinters Doug Neal and Bobby Butler, distance specialists Will Hickman, Steve Heletz and Andrew Karandjoff, hurdlers Lance McPherson and Mike Epstein and discus throwers Mark Blaine and Marty Brandwin, the Greyhounds were a force to be reckoned with.

Three strikes and you're out!" The Baseball Sug-gers very seldomly heard this phrase, but when they took the field it was common. This year with the return of all but two starters, Coach Musick looked forward to an impressive season. The team's strength consisted of a large and talented pitching staff led by seniors Jake Schaefer, Craig Butler, Steve Melnick, and juniors Ben Diamond and Jon Hoffman. In addition, a tough middle infield and catchers, Steve Melnick and Jeff Myer, frustrated their opponents. Clayton proved to be a worthy opponent even against their main rival, Brentwood.

Mike Tanner loosenin' up!

Without a doubt, the JV Basehounds had a strong season. The key to success was pitching and having "deep sticks." The pitching consisted of such greats as Jeff Sauer and Derek Gamlin plus other contributors. Coach Aiello's goal was "I just don't want anybody to get injured." For the most part his wish came true. Lastly, the Hounds' impressive fundamentals carried them through the season and into many victories.

A combination of old and new players this Softball season resulted in two very devoted and spirited teams. Returning for her second year as Varsity coach, Mrs. Bader was always a good-natured and inspirational leader. Coach Peters, first year JV coach, had no trouble firing up the players for the tough season ahead. After a fair, but not truly impressive record last year, both coaches agreed that the program did need some adjustments. This training began earlier this year and included new and different exercises and techniques. By the time the actual season began, both teams were rearing to go. The loss of six seniors, two of whom were first team all-conference members, did not seem to seriously impair the Varsity team since many talented and energetic players were ready and able to take their places. The JV team, as well, was filled with outstandingly capable players. Although the girls did not win all their games, as one Varsity player so plainly put it, "It didn't really matter whether we won or lost because there was a feeling of accomplishment after every game which this team has never experienced so strongly."

There is no stopping Cindy when she has got the ball.

The Girl Soccer Hounds got off to a great start this year with an overwhelming amount of new players. Many of the new freshman came out excited and ready to play. The tough schedule against Villa and Visitation kept the girls busy at practice. Stars Carolyn Royce and Heidi Joist along with many other talented players brought CHS its share of victories. The girls soccer team, coached by Mrs. Felps and Mrs. Byrd, with managers Damian Prichard and Hugh Black, is only four years old and has been improving every year. The team learned how to work together and cooperate like a team and, as a result, the team enjoyed playing soccer, win, lose, or draw.

As Coach Garcia watched the troops drudge down the ninth fairway, he was in awe as his tri-captains hit beautiful shots. Ted "smokes" Walter fired the Lady Tallest DT60 within inches of the cup. Eric "sourballs" Saur gently stroked the ball and yelled "it's in the hole!" Mike "treats" Prstojevic, a real Cinderella story, stroked the ball with the greatest of ease. Behind the tri-captains and Junior Pete Smith were the constantly improving underclassmen, willing to give their life for the team. With spirit like this, the golf team is sure to capture another Districts trophy and fly for a "swinging" weekend in Colombia for State.

The '88 CHS Boys Tennis team once again showed that they are one of the top teams in the area. Under the guidance of Coach Buell, superstar Mike Johnston, and talented players David O'Gorman, Tim O'Neal, Josh Gould, and Oliver Nussbaum, destroyed other top teams in the area on their way to the state meet. The team was one of the strongest Clayton has ever produced, and did very well in the team division of the state meet, as well as having Mike Johnston at the top, as usual. The '88 season proved to be an extremely successful one. It will be tough to repeat the performance in '89.

GIRLS' SWIMMING

The Girls Water Hounds started the season off right. Everyone knew who they were because of their spirited caps and suits. The increase number of swimmers made the cheers even louder. Led by captains, Kris Lutker and Karen Goldstein, the team made a big splash. Their winning record kept adding up as well as their state qualifying times. The bleachers were filled with proud parents and friends. The divers helped the team to many victories with the coaching of Mary Hunt. New psychological training gave the team an extra advantage. The girl's success followed Wally Lundt's idea that practice doesn't make perfect, but perfect practice does. All of these things made this season one of the best ever.

"WE ALL PEOPLE MONTH

Febuary took on a new meaning at CHS when everyone celebrated "People Month." This month was chosen to assentuate the fact that CHS is an "international" experience shared by all. Exhibits of Black history, cultural trivia games, guest speakers, the Black Rep Acting Ensemble, and signs and poster galore made the month a real extravaganza. CHS also experienced it's first "Soul food." The grand "Ben Huntington" barbeque climaxed the month. People month was a truly unique experience.

The pep rallies, the spirit games, Peppers Prom, soda machines, and incredible spirit are just a few things that the everpowering CHS club offers to Clayton. Led by six senior officers, Clayton has never been as alive and as spirited as this year. So, when the candy at the football games is thrown at you by a blue and orange chic, you know that the CHS is as popular as ever.

Clayton's C-Club is an organization of Clayton Students who have proved themselves athletically by earning Varsity letters. The club led by Steve Sullins organized the unforgettable Homecoming Prom, sells food at football and basketball games, and initiated other spirited activities. The group, consisting of a large percentage of the CHS student body, was more organized than ever in their own way. They are not only the athletes, but the movers and shakers of Clayton High School.

The 1987-88 school year has certainly been an interesting year for the Clamo Yearbook Staff. Spearheaded under the leadership of sponsor, Charles Pearson and co-editors Jackie Saur and Hugh Black, the staff has pulled together to overcome strife and produce a good yearbook. Helping the two editors in their task are comrades Steve Heifetz and Jenny Kurz as copy editors, Lisa Greening as computer editor, Steve Melnick as photography editor, and business editor, Mary Koenig. To add wood to the fire (so to speak), the staff has been aided by a few special helpers, the "bomb squad." A crew of hardworking and dedicated helpers who will provide a great future for Mr. Pearson. Led by Junior editor Amy Unell, this special group of workers consists of Marla Abramowitz, Trinkia Vanderlinden, Clare Davis, Matt Gontram, and Brad Downer. With the help of these and many other workers who shall herein remain unnamed, the 1988 Clamo Yearbook is certainly a success.

NEWSPAPER

The CLAMO newspaper is an enriching experience for not only those who read it, but also for those who work on it. It serves as an important teaching tool for the world of journalism for those who write it, and as a source of information for others.

The newspaper begins with the student writers. It is on them that the paper rests, for without them it would be little but blank space. After all the stories have been received by the individual page editors, then the work is transferred to the staff. The Saturday before the paper comes out, a copy meeting is held where all the articles are typed into a word processor and printed out. The articles are then sent to a printer, who returns them Tuesday for the next step, the layout. The articles come back from the printer on a special paper which adheres to the layout paper, which is the exact size of the page. Each individual page editor lays out the format of the articles on the different pages for news, features, and sports. The paper is then sent back to the printer, and the final copy is returned the following Friday and distributed during the lunch hours. The staff of CLAMO is quite large. It includes editor Marilyn Klotz, news editor Elizabeth Bernhardt, assistant news editor Caitlin Barton, feature editor Jennifer Krasinski, co-sports editors Julie McPherson and David Zarkowsky, copy editor Corinne Alfeld, business manager Sarah Winkelman, assistant business manager Adam Zucker, cartoonist Rachel Soector, photographers Kris Kuenke and Matt Fagan, and the teacher sponsor (and advisor) Ms. Cantrell.

Working on the CLAMO is hard, but is very rewarding and even more fun than reading it. There is nothing like the satisfaction the whole staff gets after seeing the final copy come out on Friday, the final return on the hard work that had been invested in it.

The Clayton High School student government had a very productive year. In the fall, a dance was held at the government center which was unexpectedly very successful. The officers, representatives, and sponsor, Mr. Cowan, worked exceptionally well together. As a result, a lot was accomplished at the monthly meetings.

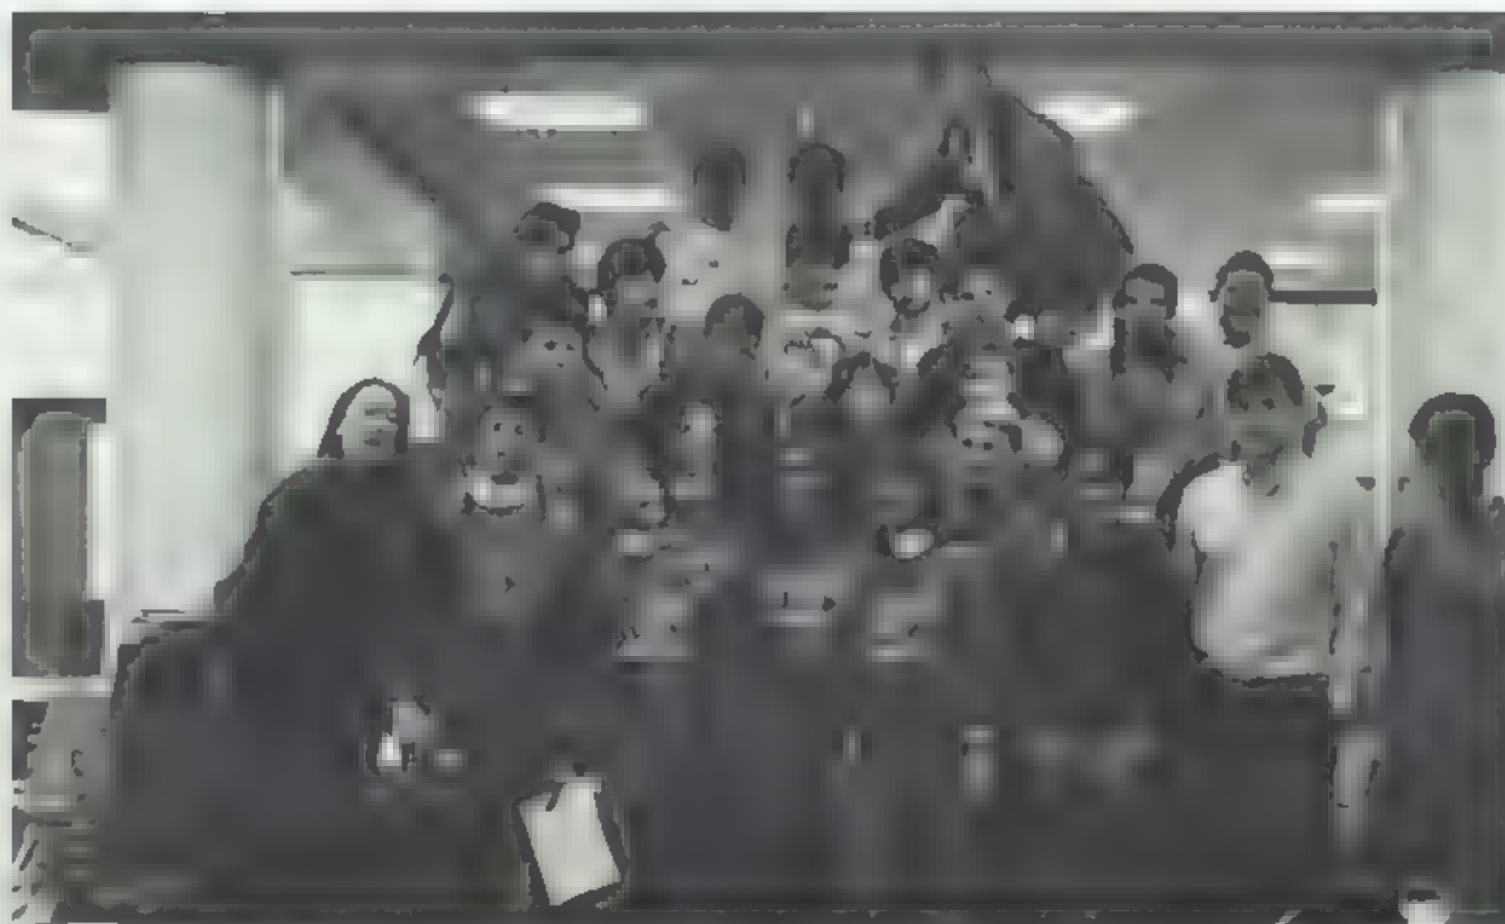

This year we saw the hard work of two representatives pay off. Doug Lefrak and Jim Floerchinger worked long and hard last year to make raquetball a varsity sport at CHS. The raquetball team went to state this season with a 7-3 record.

A final major goal set by the student government was to work towards joining the National High School Student Government Association. In order to accomplish this goal, the student government participated in student exchanges with other schools. The object of this program is to enlighten our students to the successful programs and characteristics of other accomplished student governments.

This year's student government should be commended for their hard work and commitment.

Showing proper recognition for outstanding ability is the purpose of the National Honor Society. Mr. Quiring and Ms. Starling are the heads of this group dedicated to showing appreciation for Clayton's Best.

The selection process is complex and multi-faceted. First, a list of eligible students is circulated to teachers of all departments, where they can write their comments and recommendations. The student list is then referred to a group of teachers who then decide who will be granted the honor of being a National Honor Society Scholar.

MOCK DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION: 1988

It's hip, it's alive, it's happening ... It's the 1988 Mock Democratic Convention. Every four years, ever since 1944, Clayton High School has held a Presidential Convention. By stimulating the "real thing" it is hoped that students will experience in practice a major facet of our governmental election process. Under the leadership of sponsor Dr. Morrison, Co-Chairman Ben Ederington and Brian Kennedy, and steering committee members Rad Edmonds, Hugh Black, Lisa Greening, Nick Power, and Tom Greening, the 1988 Mock Democratic Convention was a huge success, incorporating Wydowners into the grand scheme. The day flowed as smoothly as the real convention (interpret as you wish), with debate ranging from such subjects as women's rights to Keynesian economic theory. The dust cleared, leaving two candidates still standing: Georgian Senator Sam Nunn for President, and New York Mayor Mario Cuomo for Vice-President, two candidates signifying "the future" of the Democratic Party.

As one of the foreign language clubs this year, the French Club held a variety of interesting events. Sponsor Mme Morrison and President Corinne Alfeld worked together to put on the first Holiday Dinner, a seven course meal of French food in the commons for people interested in French culture. The French Club also viewed a French film with members of the U City French Club. Prominent members of this C.H.S. Foreign Language Club included Amy Duckro, Rob Gallagher, and Ben Ederington. This club greatly helped in expanding the cultural horizons of its members.

AFS

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

Our school was the lucky host of the intelligent and entertaining AFS students this year. Andy Robles from Concepcion, Chile stayed with Erik Willson and his family, while Simon Leroux, a Canadian, resided in Claverach Park with the family of senior John Sheetz. Both of the students were very active in Clayton sports. Simon Leroux who had "always wanted to play football," finally got his chance and in addition was a major contributor to the Clayton Hockey team. In addition, the soccer team was more than happy to gain the South American soccer skills of Andy Robles who helped lead his team to a district championship. These two charming AFSers easily found their way into the hearts of the Clayton students and evidently enjoyed their stay. In Simon Leroux's words, "I love Clayton High School. I visited Parkway South, Oakville, and Mehlville, and I was always happy to come back."

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

A F S. students enjoy the international dinner

Led by the president Annelies Lindemans, the International Club raised an impressive amount of money this year toward scholarships for students wishing to go abroad on the American Field Service program. This small, but enthusiastic group along with the foreign language department, Mesdames Morrison and Garganigo in particular, successfully planned the annual International Dinner in February as well as a juicy grapefruit sale at Christmas.

The meetings were few, but the output was large, by the end of the year the club had grossed well over the $1000 mark. The group's activities, however, were not all monetarily based. In May the group met with other AFS organizations for a bicycle outing. In summary, although the club does not generally receive all its due notariety, the gratitude of those who receive AFS scholarships will hopefully indicate the club's true value to this school.

TRAP AND SKEET

The Trap and Skeet Club was organized by Mr. Quiring to give Clayton students a chance to shoot clay targets on a regular basis. Meeting every few weeks in front of the globe, the club departs for the Gateway Gun Club in St. Charles. These evening excursions give CHS students a relaxing and challenging activity away from the city. The Trap and Skeet Club is always looking for new members to fill its ranks. (Yes, it's a small club, but there are more members than this picture shows.)

The enthusiastic CHS SADD chapter was especially active this year. Taking the lead in all events, were co-presidents Erika Flynn and Becca Gehring. The group gave skits to educate teenagers about the hazards of drinking and driving. The skits were powerful and realistic as to impress upon the students the serious dangers involved. In December, there was a parent's night given by SADD in order for the students and their parents to discuss delicate, yet pending issues. This ten member group worked extremely hard to keep CHS students and families safe. They definitely deserve a word of thanks from all

The Thursday night after winter finals, one small, lucky group of CHSers escaped to the frosty peaks of Chestnut Mountain Resort in Northern Illinois. Upon the arrival, "the inviting powder made the six hour bus ride entirely worthwhile," stated one skier, Karen Striebeck. The skiers found many other activities available as well. When they weren't gliding down the slopes, the group swam in the heated pool, played in the game room, or started up a rousing game of Pictionary. Only one injury incurred throughout the duration of the trip; Regina unfortunately broke her ankle while out skiing on the first day. Sunday, January 24, marked the end of the expedition, and with their heads hung low, the adventurers arrived back in St. Louis to face yet another thrilling semester

SIGN LANGUAGE CLUB

Our focus as the sign language club has shifted slightly this year. Getting started last year required more time spent organizing and establishing ourselves at CHS. This year members are busy learning more about how to communicate with the hearing impaired through the use of sign language. Keeping informed of deaf community activities has increased our appreciation of the deaf and their culture. Participation in the CHS Spring Chorus Concert by performing music in sign language is one way of sharing this appreciation with our school community

COMMUNITY SERVICE CLUB

The Community Service club run by co-presidents Nick Power and Ashley Smith and sponsored by Mr. Nick Otten gives CHS a more active role in our community. The club organized toy and food drives, whose proceeds are donated to the needy of our surrounding community. Money was raised by a poinsetta sale in with the profits going towards feeding needy families during the holidays. The club also played an active role in aiding the elderly by visiting nursing homes and sponsoring many activities with them. Students donated their time willingly and generously to promote a stronger relationship between the St Louis community and CHS

A n increase in the number of competitors on the debate team this year enhanced Clayton's status as a contender. Everyone on the team this year has surpassed previous debate successes. Led by the trophy winners, Brian Kennedy and Ben Ederington, they certainly could never lose. Eventually, they hope that they can defeat Columbia and show-off their debate expertise. Watch out contenders because the team is ready to fight!

As the Soviet Union's ambassador raises his placard for the right of reply to the speaking ambassador's insult, one can almost believe that this is all real. But it's really only Model United Nations, a unique way of introducing high school students to world politics.

There are four sessions of Model UN, one every season. Nick Powers, Clayton's Head Delegate, makes decisions on which students get ambassadorships, as well as numerous other things dealing with the inner workings of the UN. He is assisted in his ordeal by Radcliffe Edmonds and Brian Kennedy, his Assistant Head Delegates, and Mr. Eglebeiger, the faculty sponsor.

Model UN provides an innovative way of exposing high schoolers to the intricacies of how nations get along in this world's largest peace-keeping body, but it's a lot of fun, too.

Avid Model UNers lounge outside of the library, pretending to be doing homework, but really discussing international politics.

The 1987-88 Speech and Drama Team is having its most successful year of its five-year existence at Clayton High School. Thus far in the season, team members have won one or more trophies in every tournament which they have entered. During March and April, the team will compete in the Missouri State Speech, Drama and Debate Tournament with winning students advancing to the Missouri State Tournament on the University of Missouri campus in Columbia. During the spring of 1987, Clayton's entry in the One-Act Play Festival won the St. Louis District Contest and placed third in the Missouri State Contest with Jennifer Krasinski being recognized as the outstanding actress in the state of Missouri.

Of special note, the team has accrued enough points from tournament competition to be recognized as an official chapter of the National Forensic League with 21 students qualifying for individual membership. This accomplishment will enable chapter members to be eligible to compete in the district National Forensic League Tournament where winners in turn become eligible for national competition during the summer of 1988.

DRAMA CLUB

Carrying on in the dramatic tradition of the Ancient Greeks, Clayton students display their acting prowess through the Speech and Drama Team. The team members compete against students from other schools in such areas as Dramatic Interpretation, Duet Acting, Original Oratory, Duet Improvization, and Prose Reading.

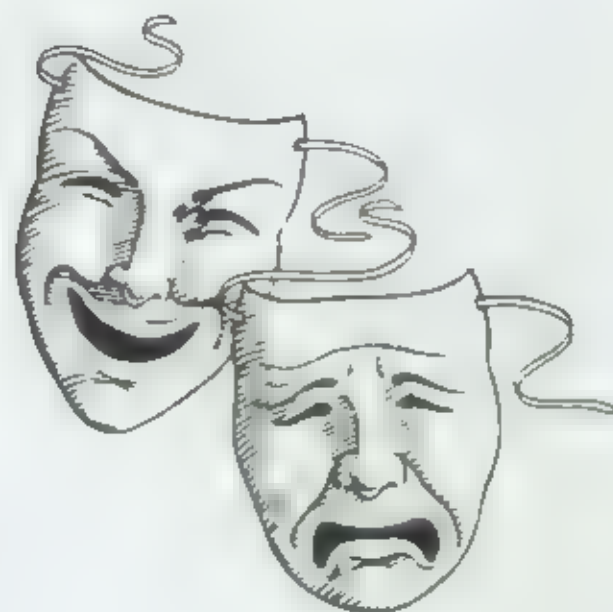

Mr. Cowan coaches these students as they refine their talent and select their scripts. He also has the tough decision of deciding which tournaments the team will attend, but wherever the team goes, they uphold the Clayton tradition of excellence.

THESPIANS

1 987 88 was a great year for the International Thespian Society at Clayton. Most of our members participated in the hit Broadway Show, Guys and Dolls, as well as the various other shows and plays presented during the year. One of our members, Rob Gallagher, a senior even directed the spring play! We all are looking forward to our annual visit to the International Thespian Society at Muvir, Indiana from June 21-26. There, we will see many shows from across the country as well as learn about the art of acting in various workshops. The members of the Clayton Troupe wish the graduating Seniors, Rob Gallagher, Jeremy Schonfeld, Jennifer Krasinski, John Levy, and Caitlin Barton success in their lives next year, and we would like to remind them, "Act well your part, there all honor lies."

The 1987 fall play "Inherit the Wind" was a fine success due to the direction by Ms. Lois and a new student director, Caitlin Barton. Outstanding performances were given by Rob (Drummond) and Jerry (Brady) Gallagher, Evan Zoeckler (Bert Cates), Annia Ciezadlo (Rachel), Steve Johnson (Reverend Brown), and Jennifer Krasinski (Mrs. Brady). The drama was given rave reviews by all those who were able to see it. Many people commented that one of the reasons the play went over so well is because the conflict between evolution and religion are still issues today. In any event, the cast members helped to provide fine entertainment for the Clayton community.

Jerry Gallagher, SRM's very own super hero, came from behind the curtains on December 4th and 5th to teach his villainous sibling, Dr. Dread (Rob Gallagher) that Crime Doesn't Pay. Under the direction of director Jennifer Krasinski and assistant director Susan Maginn, Jeremy Shonfeld's outstanding musical was called the best SRM at Clayton in years. Performances by almost all the major characters including Dr. Wimpston played by Andy Neiman, Brooke Dauphinais as the sugary sweet Buffy Marshmellow, and Bill Butler's comical Rica were acclaimed by teachers and students alike. We can only hope that next year's SRM can compare.

GUYS AND DOLLS BROADWAY

"Exhilarating" -NY Times

"Oh God! Where's My Cue Cards?" -Siskel and Ebert's Broadway Review

"Gallagher and Collier Are An Unbeatable Duo!" -Chicago Herald Tribune

Watch out Broadway, here comes the 1988 Guys and Dolls cast - straight from Clayton, MO! After scores of grueling practices, including many long night rehearsals, the devoted cast gave one of the most lively and refreshing performances ever produced at Clayton High. Rob Gallagher played the cunning and lucky Sky Masterson, leading astray his co-star, Meagan Collier, the righteous Sergeant Sarah, from her pure and simple life. Catching all the laughs were the comical couple of Jennifer Krasinski (Adelaide) and Jeremy Schonfeld (Nathan Detroit). Yet, the stars were not the only actors and actresses that shone. The Hotbox Dolls showed their stuff while the colorful Havana dance scene, featuring Andy Robles, was a smash hit. In addition, the orchestra did a spectacular job keeping the pace with all the up-beat music. Finally, last and far from least, were the men and women behind the scenes. Mr. Cowan, fourth year director, put on yet another winner in coalition with Dr. Wentworth, orchestra conductor, Mrs. Brachman, music director, Ms. Simms, choreographer, Mrs. Workman, make-up artist, and Ms. Zeile and Mrs. Gallagher in charge of costumes. Surprised? No. Dazzled? Yes. This performance definitely continued the tradition of outstanding musicals for which Clayton High School is known.

BAND

Over the years, The Clayton High School band has been forced to meet many challenges: this year, to become a marching band for the 200th celebration of the Constitution. After having so many grueling hours practicing their skill, the band decided to march at the football games. At the fall pep rally and the winter basketball games, the musicians were able to get the crowd cheering. When performing as a pep band, only a dabbling of the actual group was present. However, when all of the players were assembled, the full band claimed more members than they've had in the past few years. Under Mr. Michael Fournier's direction, the full band gave seasonal concerts at which they performed a wide variety of music to suit almost all tastes.

ORCHESTRA

The Clayton High School Orchestra is composed only of strings, although on occasion it becomes, with the help of wind, brass, and percussion players from the band, a full orchestra under the direction of Dr. Charles Wentworth. This year the Orchestra took to practicing and performing a wide range of music covering everything from jazz to classical. Concerts were held quarterly, one of which in December was specifically devoted to Baroque. Rehearsals of the Orchestra were held daily and approximately once a week a full orchestra rehearsal was held. During these rehearsals, practicing was done for concerts and festivals at which the Orchestra was graded by judges. Two major festivals were attended in the spring this year. Throughout the year the Orchestra practiced and played to achieve a quality that can make CHS proud.

The CHS chorus is one of the most harmonious classes at the high school, both literally and in spirit. You have heard the rumors about the brave, before school singers shooting at 7:15 a.m. for notes which only mice could duplicate. You have heard tell of personal vendetta against polyester apparel. All of those semi-horror stories are true, however you have not truly experienced your high school chorus until you have heard them sing. While they are in best form at the numerous concerts and community service performances, beautiful melodies can be heard ascending from the music wing every morning. There are, of course, other fringe benefits, the appreciation of the nursing home residents, the Kiwanis' holiday sing-along, the free Constitution kerchiefs, and the cookies of fearless leader, Mrs. Brackman. Our Choristers may wear polyester, but they wear it well!

ORGANIZATION OF BLACK AWARENESS

The Organization of Black Awareness (OBA) is a student organization that was founded at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The organization was founded by Kelli McNairy, a senior, and Maria Jeffries, a sophomore. The organization's purpose is to educate students about the history and culture of African Americans. The organization also organizes events such as Black History Month in February. The organization is currently looking for new members and is interested in students who are interested in learning more about African American history and culture. The organization will continue to grow and will continue to educate students about the history and culture of African Americans.

The 1987 Homecoming Prom was one of the best in years. The event was held at Commerce Bank in downtown Clayton. To go along with the beautiful setting, the queen candidates caused escorts to don formal attire: the C-men looked extremely dapper in their tails and white gloves. Jules and the Teen Tongues helped set the mode of the evening from the fabulous fifties. Almost everyone was on their feet at some point, dancing to anything from "Louis Louis" to "Flying Purple People Eater." The highlight of the prom was the coronation of the first maid, Kristin Voellinger, and Queen Adrian Powell, who along with the other candidates, received roses and gifts with which to remember the occasion. Like all good things, however, the night came to an end as couples drove off into the moonlight leaving to hosts with a room to clean and a lifetime of supply of soda.

POPI

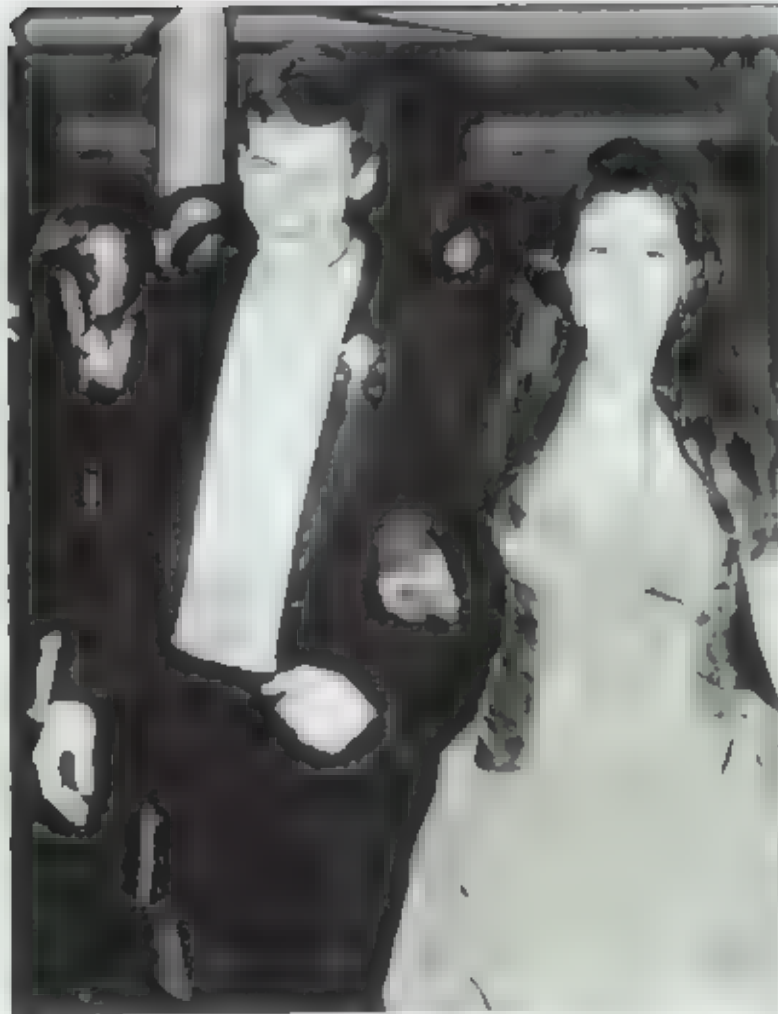

Homecoming 1987

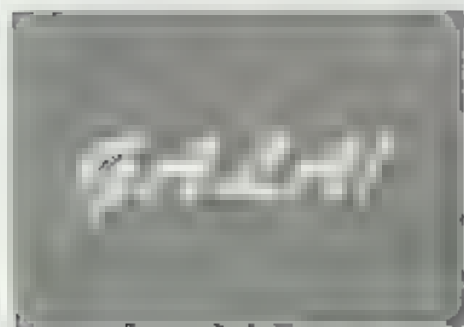

We all know that CHS can get rough and tough at times. But, when it boils down to spirit, having a good time, and crazy, limited "talent", students break out of the working world of CHS to show you what the other side of highschool is all about. The CHS Club proudly presents, "The 1988 Homecoming Pep-Rally!"

The production this year was one of the finest. We had performers such as the BAD cross country team, the WIPED OUT tennis girls, the ALL-AMERICAN volleyball team, the field hockey rebels who broke that tradition of being normal, the soccer hounds who gave us the facts straight out, the football team who proved that guys do have RYTHYM, and of course the dedicated cheerleaders were bopping around all over the auditorium with encouraging cheers. The soundtrack added to the atmosphere by creating a loud, exciting production of their own.

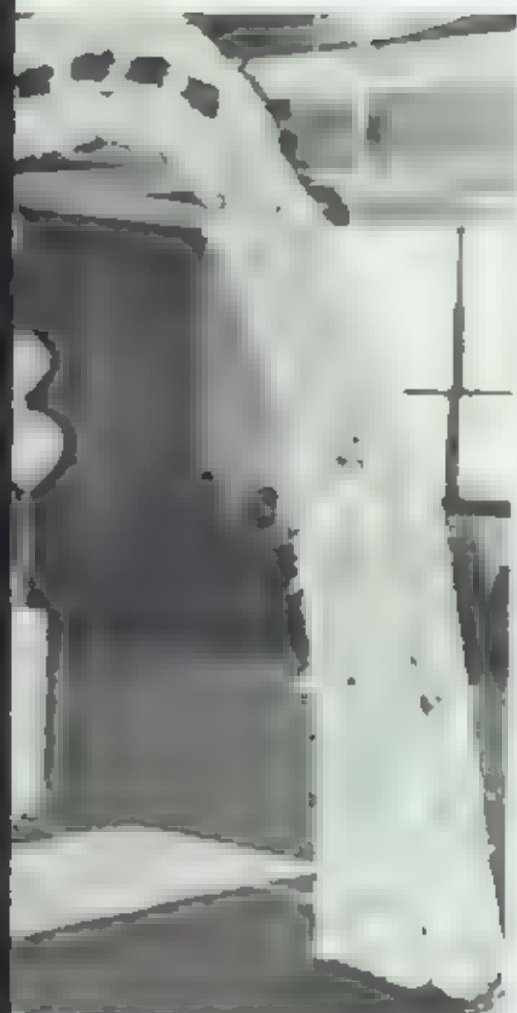

All in all, all critics gave this 1988 Homecoming Pep-Rally production a thumbs up!

INTRIGUE

PEPPERS PROM 1988

M eet me in St. Louis
Louis - meet me at the prom." Puzzled?

Those who attended Peppers Prom could not already have forgotten this year's theme "Meet Me in St. Louis." Fittingly rising above all else was a wonderful glimmering replica of our own St. Louis Arch. Along with this "Gateway to the commons", posters for well-known St. Louis establishments and drawings of the city itself festively ornamented all the walls. As entertainment, the harmonious band, "The Sounds of St. Louis", enthused many couples to take to the dance floor while awaiting the coronation of his highness King Steve Melnick escorted by Adrian Powell, other members of the court were B I Butler, Jeremy Schonfeld, Rad Edmonds, Damian Pritchard, Josh Sitzler, and Steve Sullins. However, as all great evenings must, the night of February 20th came to an end, leaving all the patrons and their Tootsie Wootsies to go home to bed.

Reflections

It is difficult to think about Clayton High School Class of 1988 without bursting at the seams with pride. My first thoughts are about the personalities of the individual members of the class. How likeable! How wonderful!

Then my thoughts turn to the successes, both dramatic and undramatic, of the individuals and groups. There are the All-State selections in athletics and music, the National Merit Finalists and Commended Students, the winning teams from the Business Management Class and the outstanding performances in the Broadway Musical of Anne, Oklahoma, and Guys and Dolls. It was members of this class who started and built outstanding programs in soccer and speech and debate. The Student Run Musicals reached new levels of quality during the last two years, and tennis sports writers have focused attention on Clayton High School since your class arrived.

No doubt the Class of 1988 is leaving Clayton High School, better than the class found it in the fall of 1984. This class assumed ownership and caused good things to become better in which they live. Improvement will be characteristic of that change. We will continue progress. And more than that, they will go on being good, decent, likeable people. I'm proud of the members of the Class of 1988. Their friendships are real treasures.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE I GOT TURNED DOWN AT THE ESQUIRE!"

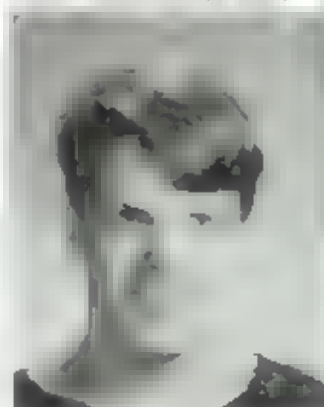

"Sophomore Slump?" No way said the class of 1990. Led by President Ameer Gado, Vice President Jo Eickmann, Secretary Lisa Gurvey, and Treasurer Emily Alfeld, the sophomore class has displayed talent both in and out of the classroom. This class has been very participant in athletics and has set a fine academic example. These upper-classmen-to-be will surely make CHS proud

For Clayton High School students, the commons is the place to gather, the place to eat, and most importantly the place to gossip. The commons is where many of our rumors originate. If you keep your ears open, you can learn who's dating whom, who cheated on what test, and who is having the party that weekend.

"Freshman Class Officers

Future Leaders of Our School!"

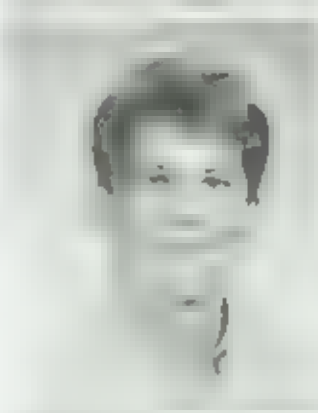

With the help of Orly Isaacson (President) Jeff Miller (Vice President), Julie Fisher (Secretary), and Johanna Epstein (Treasurer), the class of 1991 got off to a roaring start at C.H.S. Our frosh were a spirited bunch, contributing a good deal to the activities at Clayton. With such involvement, great things can be expected in the future from this reflective class of 1991

An intellectual freshman enjoys the resources of the Clayton High School Library

When things get tough and visions distorted
 Right becomes wrong, Love becomes hatred

I'm on my way to places never seen
 I'm on my way to the world

Forced occurs become useless and hatred

The ones you love become angry and belated

I'm on my way to places never seen
 On my way to a world of redeem

World of light in a land far away in a young man's mind

There are the barrel of people with love to test

No one runs away, no one cares what he looks like
 No one cares whether night or day, no one cries

NIGHTLIFE

The trip to Steak, a drive by Burger King, a venture into the Galleria, all are integral parts of the Clayton nightlife. Any rumor of a "party" gets many hearts pumping, but more often than not, a weekend night will be spent driving around taking in a movie, or, better yet, with the supermarket-sized Blockbuster Video, taking home a movie. Other events that light up the Clayton night-life scene include the Clayton football games, hockey games, and basketball games. At these athletic events, Claytonites gather and discuss further plans to the evening. Occasionally a small gathering of Clayton students will turn into a very large gathering. So when you hear about a possible Spectrefest, a party at Sheetz's, or a bunch of people over at Clooney's, don't expect too much. It's possible that you may find one of those rare exciting nights in Clayton, but it's more likely that you'll have to settle for some cheese fries at Steak.

When people think of staff, an image of principals, assistant principals, counselors, and teachers immediately arises. While the role of these individuals is vital . . . equally vital is the role of all the varied individuals, the "unsung heroes," that daily keep CHS together, our support staff. Whether it's the individual who produces the staff bulletin, takes that vital phone message, prepares that incredible breakfast spread for the School Board-Faculty breakfast, or checks a feverish student's temperature . . . we can't live without them!

Many thoughts come to mind . . . Clean rooms, glistening halls, warm smiles, free band aids, personal advice, and when you need it . . . advice on how to make that non-functioning machinery work . . . for the nth time! We dedicate these pages to those people who really make it all pleasant!

We can't do without you!

A DIFFERENT POINT OF VIEW

The atmosphere surrounding Clayton High School is one of Uniqueness. "Clayton from a different point of view" is dedicated to that vibrance, that out-of-the-ordinary ambience which has made C.H.S. the wonderful place that it is. We invite you to sit back, and enjoy the subtle difference between the obvious and the un-obvious that can only be captured by the unboundedly creative students who have dedicated their art to this project.

"You use objects to create, and in return they create themselves." - Liz Wilson

"The machinery that makes Clayton tick." - Chris Miller

PERSONAL

This page is a dense collection of handwritten signatures and names, many of which are crossed out or written over. The names are arranged in a somewhat circular or spiral pattern, starting from the top and moving downwards. The names include:

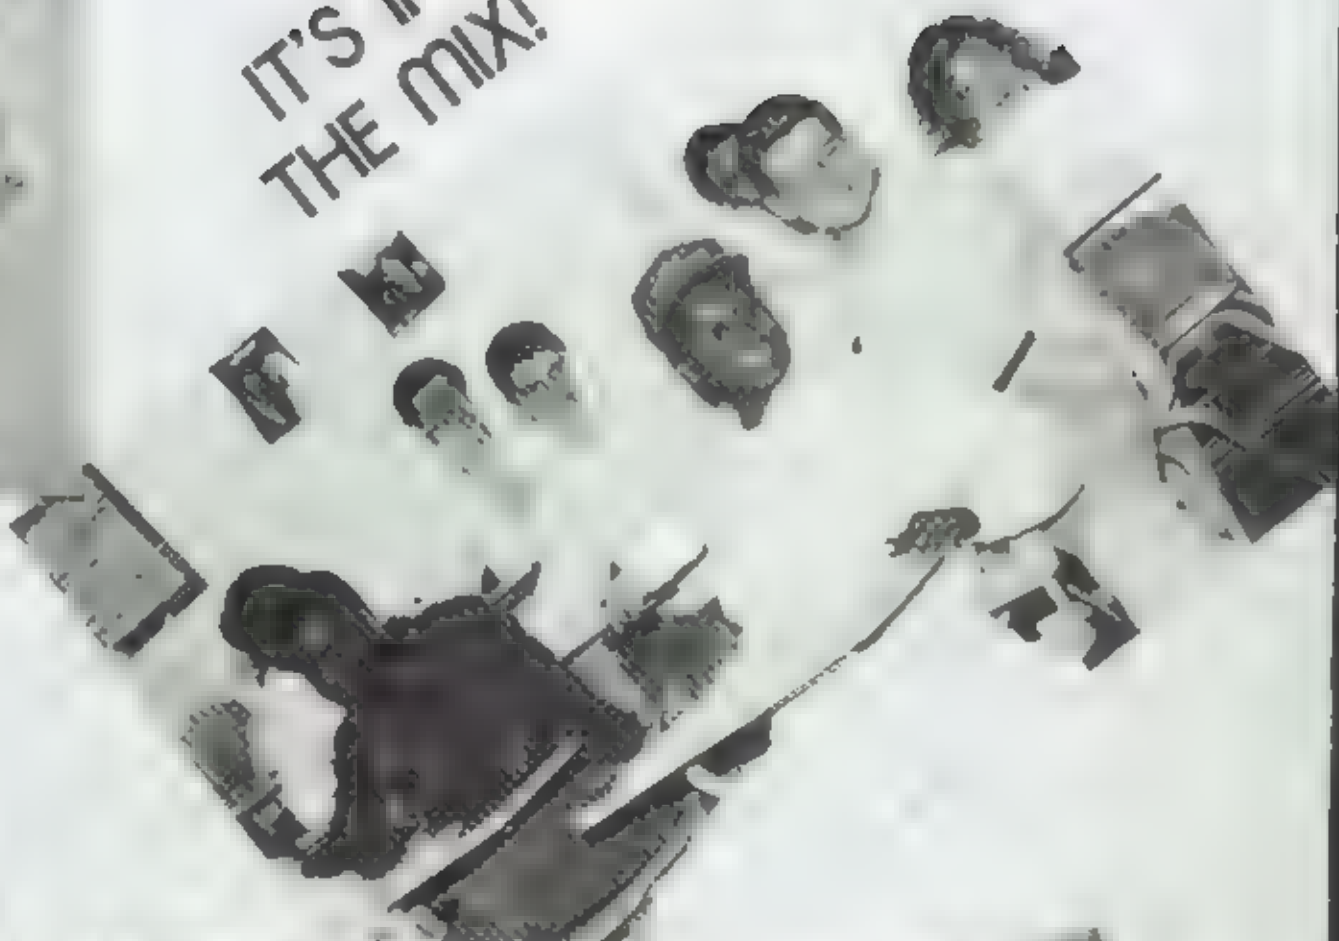

- Top row: Steve Scott Sullivan '88, Jennifer Marth '90, Michelle '90, and a name that appears to be "Michael" or "Michelle" with a date.
- Second row: Jack Williams '88, and several other names including "Mel-Mel", "Ron", and "Nina Powers".
- Third row: Phil Brown '88, and names like "Linda", "Dana", and "Kathy".
- Fourth row: Names like "Vicente Fleweller", "Katie", and "Katie".
- Fifth row: Names like "Garry", "Garry", and "Garry".
- Sixth row: Names like "Garry", "Garry", and "Garry".
- Bottom row: Names like "Garry", "Garry", and "Garry".

The handwriting is very cursive and often overlapping, making it difficult to read some of the names. There are also some dates and initials scattered throughout the page.

CLOSE-UP!

Ms. Linda M. Levy, Portia Taylor, Lisa Greening, Becca Gehring, Mike Musick, Doug Letrak, Sarah Winkelman, and Monisha Chakrobortty

The Close-Up Foundation is a major, nonprofit nonpartisan educational foundation dedicated to encouraging student involvement in government. Throughout the years, the Close-Up Foundation conducts a Washington-based seminar program that brings high school students, teachers, and older Americans to the nation's capital for week-long, onsite learning experiences. During the first week of the new semester (January 24-30), Clayton High School along with other schools from St. Louis, Atlanta, and Houston participated in this experience. The Clayton participants included Lisa Greening, Monisha Chakrobortty, Portia Taylor, Doug Letrak, and sponsor Ms. Lind. They participated in various briefings and seminars along with personally meeting with high governmental figures. In essence, everyone learned a great deal about our nation's government along with having a great time in Washington D.C. for a week.

"I'm sorry kids, but you will have to check with my secretary about that issue. I can't remember what my opinion is on that issue." -a dedicated politician
